I heard about the government attempting to regulate trade options out of senior people's IRA accounts. As a senior citizen and performing three tours in Vietnam as a U.S. Navy veteran I believe that you should leave the trade options of seniors alone since many of them may not be able to afford their retirement.

Trade options allows seniors to generate a little bit of extra money each month since their living on a fixed income. It's t's time to leave things as they are and allow seniors to generate extra income if they can using the trade options and IRA program to their benefit.

Sincerely,
